A NIGHT OF HORROR.

A Mule Team Tragedy in the Pine Nut Mountains.

There is a man in the city named Frank Osborn who last Winter was employed at Benton's stables, who is lame from having his leg broken.

This man some years ago had a remarkable experience in the Pine Nut Country, about twenty miles from Carson. He was employed as a teamster and was freighting with a team of sixteen mules.

About 4 o'clock one afternoon he was going down a steep hill, when the break slipped, and the loaded wagon with a back action attachment acquired a terrible momentum. When Osborn realized that the break had given away and that the speed of the wagon was increasing, he knew with a teamster's instinct that it was a critical moment.

He was riding on the back of one of the wheelers at the time and as the wagons came thundering on with a speed which increased every moment, the mules knowing what the noise behind them meant, broke into a gallop down the grade. He saw that the grade was a steep one and he was also on a side hill, he being on the off wheeler and the hill rising abruptly to his right. Had he been on the left wheeler he could have left the saddle at any time and rolled down the hill side. As it was a leap to the hill placed him in danger of being thrown back under the wheels.

As the wagons went jumping and thundering down the grade, the mule he was riding went down, but the others dragged it along and it struggled frantically to its feet. Again it went down and again it recovered, but this time Osborn fearing any longer to trust his seat, leaped to the bank and grasped a bush close at hand.

It came up by the roots, and running along the bank parallel with the wagons, he grasped bushes, vines, grass, anything to stay his fall back into the road. Just ahead was a stout bush which he knew would hold, but his hand fell short, the last clump of weeds came out by the roots and he went back to fall beneath the wheels.

In a moment the big iron tires where grinding over his legs and he found himself in the road with both legs broken, helpless and night coming on. He lay half on his side in the rut of the road and saw the mules and the wagons disappearing in dust and thunder as they rounded the next curve.

Unable to move a muscle, he lay there until his little dog came up and licked his face and whined. By nightfall the pain became so intense and the solitude of the mountains so intolerable, that he made a desperate effort to reach his six shooter in his hip pocket, and blow out his brains, but he was lying on the weapon and could not roll over and get it.

When the stars came out he heard the barks of the coyotes in the hills, and presently half a dozen trotted up. Then the dog began to run round his master in a circle, barking savagely at the wolves. Again the man made a desperate effort for his six-shooter, but it was useless, and so he lay there helpless and racked with pain hour after hour; while the dog never ceased a moment to circle round his master and keep the wolves at bay.

Occasionally they would make a rush and clamber on his body, when the dog would plunge into the center of the pack, fighting viciously and snapping right and left until he had scattered them.

Sometimes the coyotes would retire a few yard and send up long howls which would be answered by others miles away in the hills, and at times there seemed a couple of dozen in the pack.

The faithful dog never relaxed his efforts to save his master, but fought the coyotes until daylight. Before sunrise they disappeared, and then the dog lay along side his master with his tongue hanging out and his body dripping with blood and perspiration.

All day the hot sun poured down in Osborn's face until almost night again when a team came along and he was taken up and carried twelve miles to the first house to be cared for.

The mule team was found about a mile from the spot where the teamster had lain all night. Five mules lay in a ravine dead, with the two wagons piled on top of them and the others was wandering about the hills.

It was six months before Osborn was on his feet again and the manner in which his legs were set will leave him a cripple for life.

A few months afterwards another teamster met with a similar accident and when he was found the wolves had eaten his face and throat away so that the poor fellow had bled to death.

ALL SORTS.

—Wizard Oil at Geo. Thaxter's.

—A new brand of very smokable cigars at Dempsey's.

—There was another run-away on Carson street, yesterday.

—A freight war is promised on the transcontinental lines.

—Dr. Porterfield is holding forth at room 21, Arlington House.

—John Kelly, the old bear, is reported as investing heavily in Comstocks.

—Everything about the stock market now is full of doubt, mystery and "no sabe."

—The excitement in the Porter Ashes case has died out. Peace to its Ashes.

—It is astonishing how fast printers will set type when there is a show to go to at night.

—During the last week, applications for 3,118 acres of land were filed at the State Land office.

—Jim Townsend in the Index, calls upon the people of Carson, to put up the ready cash and trade at home.

—San Jose is quite jubilant over being rid of its Chinese quarter by fire. The Mongols will not rebuild.

—Jake Klein says he used to know the man who wrote the "Beggar Student." He and Jake were old chums.

—John Rogers was hanged at Eureka Cal., on the 6th. In May of last year he murdered Judge Kimball.

—Governor Stevenson yesterday appointed John McKernan Notary Public of Eureka County, to reside at Eureka.

—Mrs. DeNeuff of this city, and Miss Wagner, used to be schoolmates of the leading lady of the German opera company.

—The President's wife invited the Queen of the Sandwich Islands to dinner and the meal went off very well without Lamar.

—The proprietors of Steamboat Springs have rented Treadway's Park for the year and will charge picnic parties $150. A very cunning play, that.

W. H. Orr, was arrested in Sacramento, May 4th, after he had supplied a number of people with bogus tickets in the Louisiana Lottery at a dollar apiece.

—A train between Reno and San Francisco, for the accommodation of local travel and tourists, will be put on about the 15th inst., making the through trip by daylight.

—There is talk of reducing the price of listing stock in the S. F. Exchange from $1,000 to $88. This looks like a boom was pending and they wanted to give the wild cats a show.

—The threatened uprising of the Red Internationals in 1887 is all bosh. The Government can easily put down such a revolt and land every one of the leaders. Free beer would quiet the rest.

—The name Gen. P. E. Connor, the old Indian fighter, is prominently mentioned for Mayor of Salt Lake, as a Democratic-Republican, anti-Mormon candidate. He is a man of ability, honest and fearless.

—Sagebrush machines that yank up about ten acres a day are being used in the Eastern part of the State. It is a great saving to the farmers, and much cheaper than the old plan of hiring Indians and Chinamen.

—The people of Ormsby should unite to carry off the prize of $100 offered for the best exhibit from any county, (Washoe excepted) at the coming State Fair. It can be done, as Ormsby stands at the head of the class in the list of counties in Nevada.

Art Dealers Attention.

J. B. Monaco, the artist, will leave Carson about the middle of May. Those wishing to have a good crayon or oil portrait made will do well to give their order at once. Studio at Marston's Photograph Gallery. a22 1m

PACIFIC COAST ITEMS.

—San Jose has voted to issue $500,000 in bonds for public improvements.

—The weather along the California Gulf is reported to have been intensely warm lately.

—Jake Hamel killed himself at Monterey Wednesday night. He is reported to have been a worthless fellow.

—A total of $450 in rewards has now been offered for the arrest of the murderers of F. Klumpf at Sacramento.

—There is much rejoicing at Puget Sound over the improved mailing facilities by the Oregon and California line.

—Prof. Hinchley, lately connected with the Commercial College at Santa Rosa, has been arrested by his creditors.

—It is believed the fire at Chinatown, San Jose, was incendiary, and that the Chinamen were aided by white men in their criminal work.

—The Mayor of Los Angeles has requested the Chief of Police to either suppress the faro games in that city or resign his position.

—A young man named Morris Wason was killed near Sonora, Tuolumne county, Wednesday, by being kicked by a horse, the blow breaking his neck.

—Ten miles from Tombstone, A. T., a lake of water covering an acre of ground was completely dried up in twenty minutes after Tuesday's earthquake.

—The 3-year-old child of Mrs. Tribble, recently from San Francisco, was accidentally burned on Thursday evening at Seattle, W. T., and has since died of its injuries.

—The Pomona Times says that the Azusa farmers have quit raising potatoes since the boom made them rich. Some of them absolutely abandoned their crops and said they had no more use for potatoes.

—S. B. Ewing attempted suicide by poison at Santa Cruz Monday, and his friends walked him up and down his room to counteract the effects of the drug, but the clothing of Ewing was thin and pneumonia and lung fever have followed. His anxiety to recover is now said to be as great as his desire to die a few days ago.

G. A. R. Matters.

The campfire and dance to be given by Custer Post, No. 5, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, on Friday evening, May 13th, at the Opera House, promises to be the finest affair of the kind ever attempted in Carson. The best of music, a good rendition of the very attractive programme presented, an unlimited supply of well baked beans, hard tack, coffee, etc., and dancing until the old soldiers get tired and the younger ones grow sleepy, will make this camp fire blaze, one long to be remembered.

The Metallic Ring.

"Hasn't the leading soprano's voice got a metallic ring to it?" asked a man of Manager Piper after the opera was over.

"Perhaps ter vash, but I'm tamed if dere vash much metal ringin' in ter box office."

—The prospective duel in Mexico over Miss Bazaine is as unfortunate a thing as could have happened to her. Some one ought to kick her short sighted friends into the Gulf of Mexico.
